Strong aluminum channels securely hold specially engineered VIVA field shingles, replacing the need for wood battens. The system can be installed directly to vertical rafters with spacing up to 32" (813mm).

Perfect for any size project, the VIVA thatch zip channel system replicates natural palm leaf thatching on vertical open batten structures without the need to install horizontal wood purlins. This system further reduces fire hazard and makes installation quick and easy. VIVA provides decades of maintenance-free performance without the problems that can be encountered with natural thatch.
